PerfectLaw®365 on the Microsoft® Azure Cloud

Its official, cloud computing has come of age! The ability to quickly provision computing resources without the costs and labor typically associated with running a local data center has made migrating to the cloud a true option for today's law firm.

Many firms are finding that case management in the cloud, using platforms like PerfectLaw on Azure, tend to be less expensive and more secure, reliable, and flexible than on-premises systems. With the cloud, equipment downtime due to maintenance, theft, or damage is almost non-existent. Firms can scale their computing and storage resources—up or down—almost instantly when needs change. Also, firms typically pay only for the services they use, which provides a level of convenience and cost control that's almost impossible to achieve with on-site infrastructure.

Lower cost

Cloud computing eliminates the expense of setting up and running on-site datacenters, which often have added costs such as employing staff and buying and maintaining land, buildings, and computer hardware. The cloud allows firms to access their PerfectLaw system in real time to match their firm's needs on demand.

Higher security

Security is a key focus of cloud providers, who invest huge sums of money into securing their infrastructure. Cloud providers typically also offer a broad set of policies, compliance, technologies, and controls that strengthen a firm's security posture by protecting their data, apps, and infrastructure from threats.

Increased productivity

More efficiently develop and manage your output with nearly unlimited cloud computing resources. Cloud providers continuously update their datacenter networks with the latest-generation hardware, providing you with fast, efficient computing resources that never go obsolete and would be more costly to implement in a single datacenter.

Global scale

The Azure cloud runs on data centers around the world, providing overall resiliency and reliability by allowing your data to be backed up in more than one location. This also allows your IT resources to be delivered from specific geographic locations when required.

PerfectLaw® Software allows you to pick and choose options for desired functionality. Whether it's a back office or front office system, PerfectLaw® has several versions to fit your firm. We can help you configure the most effective financial management, billing, accounting, reporting and case management system designed for how your firm works.
